

Test Viewing

To view an engine test online, please click on the following link <http://ex1.tcturbines.com:9002>. An ActiveX software item will need to be installed beforehand (if a first time user), just click on the internet browser window as shown below.

This will install the ActiveX software once the user has clicked the install button when the following prompt appears.

The user will then be presented with a logon screen, and is required to enter a password and username. For password and username access to the Test view site, please contact the following personnel prior to test:
